

'Our Town'

J. B. WHITE

The Federal Government is making a major contribution to the prevailing disruption of the securities market by its announced policy of building and encouraging the construction of more than 277 electric power generating plants throughout the country. If the ill effect of this program could be restricted to bonds issued by privately owned electric utility plants the whole picture of government control and competition would be bad enough. Unfortunately the policy of the government has brought about a suspicion among many investors that nothing is secure because the government may on tomorrow decide to enter other fields where private capital has been allowed to develop and bring America's new day of better living.

The power to tax; the power to fix the value of money and the political importance of using a weapon so effective, are each in themselves obstacles difficult to overcome. No more forceful example of the damage done to industry could be cited than the comparative allotment of federal funds, with the value and invested capital of Millions of Americans in the utility industry generally. Secretary Ickes has allotted $144,569,298 to be used in the construction of 277 electric power projects in the United States. A small sum, it is true, and not calculated in the long run to do any permanent good, but the gesture is enough to put fear and uncertainty into legitimate expansion of business because it shakes confidence and all but closes the market to utility concerns that must borrow or sell their securities.

New securities placed on the market since government competition became the blackest cloud on the horizon, are to all comparative standards, lacking in investment appeal. The outlook is not bright. These privately owned industries, employers taxes, cannot long stand before the of labor and payers of millions in forces of confiscation.

If need existed for construction of these plants there could be no reasonable objection to the allotments of money. Definitely there is no need for such a program, for in every instance government utility projects have come and will continue to come into competition with privately owned utilities. If the private power companies were not meeting demands for such service there still would be no reason for government intrusion. In view of the known fact that power companies are adequately organized and operating to give the maximum of service in every section of America, it becomes more and more patent that the whole program is unnecessary, dangerous and irrelevant.

Sam Darden Runs For State Senate

Senate Candidate

Sam Darden of Waco is a candidate for State Senator to succeed the late Dr. W. R. Newton.

Darden is a Waco Attorney, and former Assistant District Attorney of McLennan County and City Attorney for the City of Waco. He is 35 years old, is married and has one child. Upon his graduation from Baylor University in 1928 he entered the practice of law in Waco. In the 10 years intervening he served two and a half years as Assistant District Attorney of McLennan county and two years as City Attorney of the City of Waco. When not in public office Darden was engaged in the private practice of law, sometimes representing the plaintiff in cases and the defendant in other cases. DR. NEWTON WILL NOT RUN FOR TEXAS SENATE

Dr. W. R. Newton, Jr., whose entry into the senatorial race to succeed his late father, Dr. W. R. Newton, Sr., had been sought by thousands of friends in every county of the district, today decided in favor of his profession as a career and has declined at this time to enter into politics. His statement is as follows:

"Since the death of my late beloved father, Dr. W. R. Newton, Sr., on May 21, I have been urged by many to enter the race to succeed him in the State Senate. The loyalty of these hundreds of men and women in the four counties of the District, from all walks of life who appreciate my father's service in the Senate, has touched me deeply. No man could receive such tender of support without being profoundly influenced. I do not underestimate its value. There was every indication that I could have succeeded in part to the large place held by my father in the hearts of thousands and my election seemed assured had I felt inclined to enter the campaign. For a number of reasons I have reluctantly declined. My decision is in favor of my profession to which my late father devoted his life. At this time it is necessary that I remain at my post of duty as a doctor and devote the time to private affairs. If the future should hold for me an opportunity such as this one I trust it will be possible for me to be of service."

It is his aim to see as many of the voters as he can and to acquaint himself in such a way as to gain the friendship so much desired.

Country Club Park Site Turned Down By City Voters

Voters in Cameron Tuesday turned back by a majority of 70 votes the proposal to buy the Cameron Country Club property and to make of it a city park.

It was not known what disposition will be made of the property after the present Golf Club lease expires. Fear was expressed the course might be lost to the city. One of the proposals was to build a swimming pool near the lakes.

The city has an appropriation of federal money to build a swimming pool. The government is facing the problem of obtaining a water supply and upon this issue may be determined the course to accept or reject the federal grant.

MRS. SUSANNA SANDERS IS BURIED IN CAMERON

Mrs. Susanna Sanders died suddenly on Friday, June 3, 1938 at 12:03 p. m. in the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Bonds. A heart ailment was the cause of his death.

Mrs. Sanders had been ill for several weeks. Physicians had pronounced her condition uncertain and while her death shocked the hearts of many, her advanced age led those close to her to hope little that she might regain her strength. The end came as she sat at lunch, her daughter being the only member of the household near when death claimed the pioneer Southern woman.

For one so universally enthroned in the hearts of many the sorrow was commensurate with the loss so distinctly felt. For years she had lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bonds and by her unflinching devotion to them and those near and dear, she became to all the likeness of Mother.

Mrs. Susanna Sanders was a native of Mississippi. Before her marriage to J. B. Sanders she was Miss Susanna Hand. She was one of a family of 9 children and her death marks the passing of the last of the family. To her marriage was born one daughter, Mrs. B. F. Bonds who survives. A nephew W. K. Matthews and daughter, Miss Agnes Matthews

Rotarians Hear Talk on Narcotics

Rotarians Wednesday heard John Copley, druggist at the New Cameron Drug Company, in an interesting and informed talk on narcotics.

Mr. Copley brought to the 15 Rotarians present a vivid picture of the fight on narcotics. He traced the origin of the use of opium and dwelt at length on the laws that have been enacted and the machinery that has been set up to combat the evil. Contrary to belief opium use did not originate in China and in that country the use of it is more effectively opposed than in any other country. Use of opium first came into use in India.

Opium is prohibitive to produce in America. The richest source of supply is in Java where the poppy plant thrives better than in any other country. Mr. Copley brought the Rotarians a good program for the day.

Rev. Vernon G. Miles of the First Baptist church was a luncheon guest.

Car Wreck Near Fatal To Ladis Matula Ace Pitcher for Cameron

Ladis Matula, mound ace for the Cameron ball club is in the Cameron Hospital, critically injured. A car in which he was returning from Bryan late Sunday struck a portion of the concrete structure on the Brazos bridge. A piece of timber from the railing plunged through the car and all but tore his right arm from his body.

Sam McDermott, Jr., looking back through a mirror in his machine saw the wreck, turned around quickly and brought the injured boy to the hospital here. His condition is regarded as less critical but little hope is held that he will ever again be able to use his arm and amputation may be necessary.

In the car was Cliff Werlla, Geo. Matula, G. Chambers and Bill Worcester. Mr. Werlla was driving and the car belonged to him. It was almost a total wreck.

Approaching the bridge the Werlla machine was steered sharply to avoid sidestepping a truck. Before the car could be righted it struck the abutment, plunged on to the bridge floor and turned over, stopping traffic for some time.

Doss Hardin Runs For State Senate

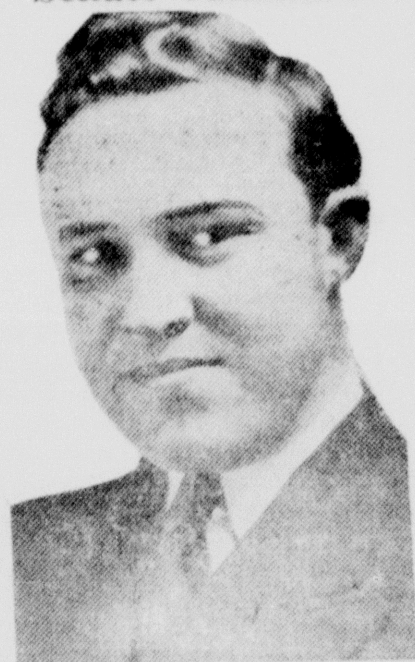

Senate Candidate

To the Citizens of McLennan, Falls, Limestone and Milam Counties:

I was a candidate for State Senator from the 13th Senatorial District of Texas two years ago. I was defeated by a few votes. With only about three weeks campaigning I polled 11,000 votes in the district.

After my defeat I did not stop my fight in the interests of the people of Texas. Since that time I have made more than one hundred speeches in behalf of the old age pension and economy in Government. I have always paid my own expenses to and from the places in Texas where I was called upon to deliver the address; therefore, it has taken all of my spare time and a greater portion of my salary as Assistant Attorney General of Texas to make these trips and these speeches. Therefore, my campaign will be one of the old horse and buggy type, with little funds, and I am calling upon my friends of this Senatorial District to take my message to their friends in order that my candidacy will be properly placed before the voters of this Senatorial District.

I have resigned my position as As-

Screen's Stars in Theatre Bills for Remainder of Week; "Jezebel" With Bette Davis Tops Program

The week at Cameron Theatre brings some of the better productions of the year. The remaining days of the week are crowded with bang up entertainment.

Thursday and Friday you have Burns and Allen in College Swing. Martha Raye and Betty Grable are in the picture also and this just about completes the round up of comedy talent.

The Saturday program in June are all top ranking pictures. Mr. Swift gave special attention to the bookings to provide a Saturday bill and a preview that stand out alone with the remainder of the pictures. Victor McLaglen and Louise Hovick bring you the Battle of Broadway Saturday. It would be difficult to think of a better program. Topping the day's run is Peter Lorre in Mr. Moto's Gamble for the preview.

Climaxing the galaxy of parading stars is Bette Davis who brings her never to be forgotten show "Jezebel," to the Cameron Theatre screen. With her is Henry Fonda. Jezebel is a story of the deep South with the civil war as a background. It leaves nothing to be desired in drama and Bette Davis gives her characteristic and captivating performance in this strong version of southern heartaches and fate.

Eagle Scout Rank Given at Rockdale

Joe Bill White of Troop 53, Cameron, became an Eagle Scout on Friday night when that rank was conferred at a Court of Honor in Rockdale.

Judge Graham Gillis presented the badge to Joe Bill and his mother Mrs. Leona G. White pinned the badge on the smiling member of the famous Cameron Troop who had come up the long way from a tenderfoot to the highest honors. George W. Powell, Executive for the Heart O' Texas Council delivered the Eagle rank charge, stressing the responsibilities that are inherited by all Eagle scouts. He said that only one half of one per cent of all scouts ever reach this rank.

Troops from Rosebud, Cameron and Rockdale held their regular court of honor at the high school auditorium in Rockdale. Judge Graham Gillis, chairman for advancement for the county was in charge. He was assisted by J. W. Haygood, District Commissioner. Chas. F. Rutledge, newly appointed field scout executive for Bell and Milam counties was secretary.

High School Graduate In the Present Day World

By IVA EARL HEATH
Valedictorian Class of 1938

Tonight as you look at us, the graduating class of 1938, you are probably thinking that this is the happiest moment of our lives, in turn, we, with the self-satisfaction that only a graduate can have, try to tell ourselves that it is the happiest moment of our lives, but as we search to the very depths of our hearts and souls, what do we find? Are we really glad the time has come for us to face the problems and perplexities to face and the world?

Soon we shall be the masters of our own lives. We shall be plunged into unwonted freedom and variety of opinion, early confusion, or loss of religion. No longer shall we step aside to let others do things, but from now on others will step aside for us for we shall be doing things. We have the ability. We know where we are going. We shall have a wholesome and regulated freedom very different from our days of childish discipline and restraint.

Can we adapt ourselves to this new discipline and bear the extra burden without faltering? In these times of false representation and deceptive radio and magazine advertisements aimed at corrupting our moral standards, it is difficult for us to think independently. Not only must we face the bombardment of world-wide propaganda, but we are living in a fast-changing world. The hundreds of inventions of yesterday will be the thousands of inventions of tomorrow, and we shall be the inventors. People will dress differently, think differently and live differently. Are we going to sit passively by and watch these changes, or are we to be among those who are responsible for these changes? Dr. Holmes, a noted psychologist, says that 95 per cent of the people of this world think an aimless, desultory, gossipy flow of ideas, and only 5 per cent aim definitely direct and definitely arrive at conclusions. When it is so easy to get our thinking done for us, the big temptations is not to think. We glance at the newspaper headlines and let them form our opinions. We neglect to read the monthly magazine that would give us the meat on the subject. After listening to a few minutes of the radio, we flatter ourselves into thinking we know all about the Symphony. We read a review of a play and then decide we don't need to see the play itself. When we do think, we think with our emotions and not with our minds. We are moved by impulse and not by judgment. These are some of the temptations that confront the average person today whether adult or high school graduate as we face you tonight. None is going to get very far this day unless he thinks for himself.

The fault of our age is the fault of hasty action, of premature judgment, of a preference for ill-considered action over no action at all. This age applies to everything a false standard of efficiency. Efficiency with us to accomplishment, whether the accomplishment be by just and well-considered means or not. This is the standard of achievement that is debasing the morals of our age, the intellectual morals of our age. We do not stop to do things thoroughly. We do not stop to know why we do things. We see an error and we hastily correct it by a greater error; and then go on to cry that the age is corrupt.

We live in an age where every task of man is conditioned upon intelligent and effective use of the mind, upon some substantial knowledge, some special insight, some trained capacity, some penetration which comes from study, not from natural readiness or mere practical experience. Furthermore, we must face a world in which the side attractions draw the best men and the leaders, and we too, are likely to be influenced to place emphasis upon those side attractions rather than upon those things which are more essential. This does not mean that we should abolish all of our pleasure and entertainment, but we should keep first things first.

Even as I talk tonight the world is passing through an economic depression. Everyone is being called upon to bear extra burdens. There is a crisis in every nation, in every business, in every household. Unfortunate is the nation which has no physical and mental reserves, but more unfortunate is the individual who has not stored up for himself the mental and physical resources with which to meet with an even temper and calmness the disturbing influences of the day. Nerves snap! Tempers explode! Bodies and minds give way unless they can call up physical reinforcements. We have a freshness of youth with which to meet these forces.

Today democracy is on trial, and none knows how it will stand the trial. Abounding about us are pessimistic prophets. Fickleness and violence used to be, no longer, the vices which they charge to democracy. Vulgarly enthroned is elbowing everything superior from the highway. Soon we shall be the yeast-cake for democracy's dough. If we are to make it rise with culture's preferences, we must see to it that culture spreads broad sails. We must shake the old double reefs out of the canvas into the wind and sunshine. This they tell us is our destiny.

We stand in a world where no enterprise stands alone. Processes change, industry undergoes instant revolutions, new inventions, fresh discoveries, alterations in the markets of the world throw accustomed methods and the men who are accustomed to them out of date and use without pause or pity.

Quick apprehension, quick comprehension, quick action are what modern life puts a premium upon—a readiness to turn this way or that and not lose force or momentum. Our problems obviously need and require the finest intelligence of the country to save us from constant distress.

The world of ours has no need of the weakling who shrinks from personal combat and is disturbed by the fear of a little physical pain and discomfort. The man in the future who is to gain the respect of his fellow men must possess robust qualities of body and finer qualities of the intellect.

We live in an age in which no achievement is to be cheaply had. All the cheap achievements open to amateurs have been exhausted and have become commonplace. Work, definite, exacting, long continued, but not narrow or petty or merely rule of thumb, must be our law of life if we are to pass its gates and go out with its authentication.

This century will see changes that will dwarf those of the 19th. Everything seems pointing to the belief that we are entering upon a progress that will go on, with an ever-widening and evermore confident stride, forever. The reorganization of society that is going on now beneath the traditional appearance of things is an active reorganization. We are getting into marching order. We have struck our camp forever, and we are out upon the roads. We are in the beginning of the greatest change that humanity has ever undergone. Engineering advances; agriculture advances; commerce expands. We compass the earth. We swim the seas. We ride the air. Our voices pierce the intervals of space, and our thoughts the unplumed waves of ether.

But even though this world that we are about to enter appears to be a tumultuous sea of perplexities and problems, it has its added advantages. It is really a world of opportunities for us. Our universities offer an education to all who can profit by it. The universities are and must be very democratic. Society helps any student or man whether or not he foresees the possibility of admission to its ranks, to give point and interest to his necessary daily exercise. It helps to make a game out of what is often humdrum work, to bring an amusing and not too strenuous sort of competition into self-training. We have every position open to us. We have opportunity for association with our fellows in congenial pursuits and training in leadership and responsibility in the conduct of affairs.

If we as individuals and as a group are to be happy and successful leaders and followers, and if we are to adjust our lives to this new life of added problems, the solution is ours. We have at our command all the resources of the past and the present, and it is inevitable that what we have as our weapons, democracy, bravery, youth, education of bodies, minds and of hearts, should be superior to the forces of ignorance, fear, tyranny, and evil. Our weapons are greater than the force of evil. As a result of our training we have put on an armor which makes the outcome of such war the triumph of good, enlightened thought over ignorance, of justice and freedom over tyranny and oppression. Tonight, despite the clouds that are gathering on the horizon it is with this keynote of optimism and confidence that we wish to say farewell to our high school, our friends, our teachers and to each other.

Electrical Gifts

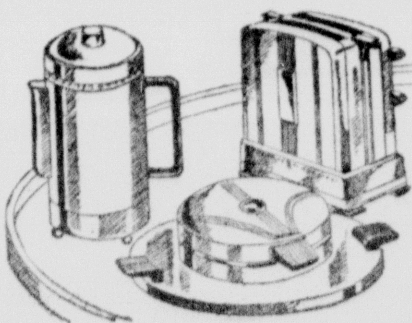

The very finest sort of gift to get and to give. There is such a wide choice, and every single one is practical and useful, and in most cases beautiful, too, as the new I. E. S. lamps, and electric clocks for every room.

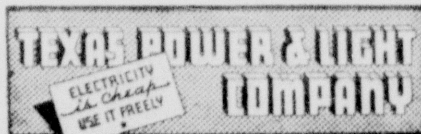

Then there are the grandest appliances for the preparation and serving of food. The electric mixer, for example. The Toastmaster tray is something every couple likes, and they'll need an electric iron.

For little suppers for two, or snacks for the gang, send the bride and groom a waffle iron, an electric coffee maker, and the double toaster that does two crisp brown slices at once. There are lots of other good ideas in the show rooms of local dealers.

HOME COMING AT TRACY

The Home Coming at Tracy will be held Sunday, June 19th at the Tracy Methodist church. Every one is invited.

Mrs. C. Plate.

Sanders

of Itasca and Dallas survive. Another niece, Mrs. J. T. Phillips survives and lives with her daughter Mrs. F. E. Dye in Bay City.

Mrs. Sanders came to Texas many years ago and settled at Mexia. In 1914 she moved to Thorndale to make her home with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bonds and since that time has been the mother of the Bonds home. In the fall of 1914, Mr. and Mrs. Bonds moved to Cameron and Mrs. Sanders had been a resident here since that time. She was a member of the Methodist church, faithful to its faith and ordinances.

Funeral services were held at 3:30 on Saturday afternoon, June 4, 1938 at the residence of the family. Rev. J. Coy Williams, pastor of the First Methodist church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. J. P. Love, pastor of All Saints Episcopal church, and close friend of the family. Interment was made in Oak Hill Cemetery in the newly acquired family plot in the shadow of great oaks. Pallbearers were: E. H. Coffield, L. L. Blaylock, R. G. Grabein, Stanley Swift, S. H. McDermott, W. T. Ramse, M. G. Cox and J. B. White. Funeral arrangements were directed by the Leland Green Funeral Home.

It was an afternoon of sun and shade, so typical of life's changing drama, the light of day gleaming for the memory of smiles and affection, the shadows of evening telling their story of sacrifices that are old to life, and the hunger of hearts left behind.

When the funeral hour came Saturday the home her life had so well graced was richly redolent with floral tributes. Standing about the massive gray casket were those who cared most. In measured words that expressed the loss so poignantly their own, ministers paid her tribute. Friends, deeply moved by the spectacle of homage were blending their hearts in a common grief. Banked high about her were flowers rich with nature's colors, their fragrance telling again the tender story of her own life for about her was beauty every day. The sun flooding through from a nearby garden seemed reluctant to give her up, its voice of light calling her back to the care of plants and flowers she so devotedly nurtured. All eyes were weeping. Tears that told the story of wrenched hearts found a counterpart of glistening in blossoms rare, for close to her in kindred fragrance they bridged by sentiment's own strength the long way a parting suggests.

Few had lived so well the ennobling ways of life. The affectionate remembrance of Susie will be a lamp to the paths of hundreds who saw in her rich philosophy the attributes of the Great Giver of Life. Those who came to say farewell know only that their hearts have been impoverished by her going. It is for those who lived with her, shared with her life's joys an triumphs and mingled their sympathies in common accord over days that are sometimes dark, to plumb the depths of loss. The vacant chair, a room that is empty and silence where once her reassuring voice consoled, all these and more, will recall anew each day the bitter hour when Susie went away.

Life's seasons revolve and the years write upon us their change. Memory is a book and from its pages we read. The story it tells often makes less poignant the sorrows that fill its pages. Somewhere in its absorbing detail, though tears blind us we discover the consolation that is expressed so well in the philosophy of no regrets. It is not too difficult for us to say: "We have drained the cup of sorrow. Time and destiny pressed it to our lips and all life seemed tragic. Night came, it was a long way out to the dawn, but at last the light of it burst upon us. In its awakening we found solace. The little we had given had been multiplied into treasures. And so there came back to abide with us the gratitude of one who knew the fullness of our appreciation."

This is the sun's one hour of glory; Going in radiance away to the West;

Leaving the echo of a golden story With the waves and the wet sand saying: "This is best."

It is beauty's way, and love's way, To pass in splendor, As shadows of sadness drift across the sky, And over all the sea is a loneliness as tender As the first lost kiss and the last good-bye.

Reward for return of black purse containing money, eye glasses, keys and other valuables, including letters. Mrs. Hallie Wofford, Cameron, Texas.

equipment to render a valuable service to the people of the 64th district. In his statement, Smith said: "Even before the beginning of the Republic of Texas my ancestors have been interested in this great State of ours. My great-grandfather Smith fought for the freedom of Texas from the Mexican rule, and my Grandfather was an early settler of Milam county and a Civil War veteran. I am the first member of the family to ask for a public office, and it has been my desire for some time to serve you good people of Milam county as your representative. I have felt, however, that in order to serve you best I should learn the business and this procedure from the ground up. For the past three years I have served in the House of Representatives as Assistant Sergeant at Arms, and through this position I have learned the principles of parliamentary procedure and have gained experience of untold value that will prove of inestimable benefit to me should I be elected to the office I now seek."

After graduating from Rockdale high school several years ago, Smith spent two and a half years in the University of Texas where he studied for a Business Administration degree. This study has given him valuable information concerning the economic situation, and has further adapted him to better serve as representative.

"If I am elected," the candidate said, "I will do everything in my power to promote such legislation as will benefit Milam county and will con-

KINDNESS

I think there is no more appealing trait of character than kindness. The story of the good Samaritan who was so compassionate and helpful to the unfortunate man who had been robbed and left on the road side to die is indeed a beautiful one.

Today we often hear people say that it does not pay to do a kindness or good deed for the other fellow. They say the recipient is not only unappreciative but the more you do for him the more he expects you to do. Perhaps there are those who take an unfair attitude toward those who would help them, but I cannot recall a single instance in which I used the opportunity to do a kindness that I did not receive a definite reward. Even when the person to whom a favor has been rendered is unappreciative there is always the knowledge or feeling inside you of well-doing.

The person who is always willing to lend a helping hand, or do an act of kindness to make someone happy is himself a happy person. I have a warm feeling in my heart for that mother, who having the welfare of her own children at heart, takes the time to bake a batch of cookies for the little fatherless kids down the street, for that father, who though laden with problems and worries all his own, is never too tired to listen and understand and help the young and inexperienced who come to him for advice; for that cheerful worker who always gives a smile and a word of comfort and courage to his fellow-man; for that person who offers to wash the dishes, or comb Junior's hair for the tired housewife—in other words, for those who give "a cup of cold water" to the stranger who passes along the way.

Good deeds go to make up the happiness of mankind and it takes neither silver or gold in order to be kind; it takes only the willingness to go out and give yourself wherever you find a need.

deeply obligated to render a faithful, worthwhile service to the people of Milam county in the Texas Legislature.

Mr. Slavik indicated that his major work as a member of the House would be to seek to lower the tax burdens of the people. He was conscious of the fact that within the past decade while tax burdens have steadily mounted, every candidate has run on a platform of economy. He does not want his economy stand to be empty and has therefore pledged himself to vote against any measure that unnecessarily imposes additional taxes. He believes that the present cost of government can be cut many millions by boldly and fearlessly cutting down every service not needed by the people.

On the vital question of old age assistance Mr. Slavik said: "The constitution of Texas is mandatory in its provision for the payment of pensions to the aged of Texas. I want every aged person in Milam county to know that they have in me a friend; that at no time will I be found careless or indifferent to their needs. I think that they should be paid every cent possible within the limits of income now in existence and that may in the future be levied. There are many aged people not now on the rolls that should benefit by this universal law. It will be my plan to see that all are taken care of."

Mr. Slavik takes the view that platform declarations are often of necessity altered by conditions that arise. He believes that the best service can be rendered by at all times responding to and representing the sentiment of his county and to lay out his course of service in the house so that his vote at all times will be to effect savings in the costs of government and to oppose any additional burdens on the people.

Mr. Slavik said that it is important to the state and to the people of the county he hopes to represent that he co-operate with the administration in power as far as possible at all times. The value of this sort of relationship to the administration may be seen in the advantage he will enjoy to get the maximum of recognition for his people upon every question that comes before the body. It will be his purpose to get along and to use a conservative, business like point of view so that the maximum of good things can be done for Texas.

As lifelong Democrat he believes that the present form of the legislature is representative government and therefore opposes any effort to destroy the legislature as provided for in the beginning of the state's history. He thinks that the farm communities of Texas are vital to the welfare of the state and no condition should arise wherein representation would in any wise be restricted to the larger centers of population.

Mr. Slavik believes that Texas should invite new industries; that we have the natural advantages and we should employ every legitimate means to encourage development, thus providing jobs for worthy Texans and increase our sum total of wealth. He believes that no legislature is wisely constituted that does not recognize the necessity to aid agriculture. He wants a program for Texas that will benefit Texas farms, and Texas farm people.

Born and reared on a blackland farm in Milam county, he knows all the problems of the rural dwellers. Mr. Slavik is 28 years of age and is educated and well equipped for the job he seeks. For years he has been a close student of economic conditions and has come along through the years to experience the hardships of the average farm boy. Despite all these he has succeeded and his friends point out that he has had the kind of training that will give the people a balanced intellect in the House; progressive enough to comprehend the progress necessary for Texas and her people; conservative enough to be a factor against waste and burdensome legislation.

He will make an active canvas and hopes to see and talk with each voter. He asks his friends over the county to lend their support to his candidacy and is deeply conscious of the responsibilities his election will impose and will take the expression of confidence in him as a mandate for hard work and honest, fearless service to the people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. F. Hunter and son Fennimore of San Antonio, were week end guests of Mrs. India Stidham.

Ada Mae Hinman, Ass't Home Dem. Agent, Cameron Milam County:

A durable and attractive study desk of orange crates is one of the things that Augustine Horelica has made as a part of her bed room improvement demonstration for the Ad Hall 4H club. THEY said it couldn't be done — that tires could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

to every principle of legitimate expansion and growth of business.

The present situation might be well composed if the Congress could effect in the bill now pending a provision to protect investments and investors. This could be done by limiting federal allotments to power plant construction in communities and territories where none are now operating and the need apparent. This might even be an admirable program. At least it would put government on record as anticipating the needs of those who have not as yet been reached by the industry and at the same time be fair to those who have pioneered, invested their money and brought comforts and cheap usage of great power.

Administration leaders seem for the moment determined to follow the White House lead, that of committing unconditionally to Mr. Ickes the right of judgement of when and where to plant federal money. The situation would be much the same if the government decided that the whole field of merchandising could be best sustained under government grants of money, or that manufacturing could progress and find markets under federal ownership. How long would private capital hang around for a chance to invest? The answer is that confidence is too sorely needed at this time to admit of any further jeopardy of opportunity or property rights by reason of usurpation of the American principle that government has its rightful place and private initiative its heritage to exploit opportunity.

tives, have the solemn responsibility of passing on legislation and enacting laws, vitally affecting the people of Texas. For 15 years I have constantly studied the subject of government.

It is my conviction that a public office is a gift and trust from the people, and not a commodity to be bought. The compensation for State Senator is $1200 for the regular session. I do not feel that I can afford to borrow money from my friends to make an expensive campaign. Accordingly my campaign from the standpoint of expense will be most modest.

If I am elected I will, to the limit of my ability, undertake to represent all of the people. I earnestly request that the voters of the 13th Senatorial District make inquiry concerning my qualifications for this important place. It will be my purpose to contact as many people as the limited time will permit. From time to time I will discuss publicly the important questions confronting the people of this district and the State at large.

Your vote and the weight of your personal endorsement to your friends is earnestly and respectfully requested.

economy like we should, by having the State Auditor report to the Legislature rather than the Governor, thereby letting the people's representatives control the budget.

2. Abolish the Liquor Board, place the collection of the liquor tax in the hands of the State Comptroller, the enforcement of the laws in the hands of the local officers.

3. Cut the general appropriation bill fifteen million dollars by cutting high salaries, abolishing unnecessary bureaus and commissions, leaving our school appropriations as they now are and paying the pension according to the amendment voted by the people.

4. Abolish the present pension set up, place it in the hands of the County Judge and Commissioners Courts and use this tremendous saving in helping to finance the pension due these old people of this State.

I am going to make a very active campaign, see in person all the people I can and make as many speeches as possible between now and the special election, which is called the same day as the first primary.

Sincerely yours,
DOSS HARDIN,
Candidate for State Senator to succeed Dr. W. R. Newton.
